Old Iltydian U13 v Llantwit Fardre

The Iltydian Under 13's battled well against a well organised side, with three of the opposing team's more experienced players transferring to the Illts team to make up the numbers for the home game.

As far as the Iltydians were concerned, heads never went down, and although short of a few of their own players, they put up a spirited game.

A notable high point was when Gareth Smith scored his first try for the team.

Whilst Llantwit Fardre finished the match some points ahead, the opposition coach was heard to remark that the Illts had put up an excellent challenge – other opposition teams had given away far more points to them in other games this season so in spite of their loss, the Illts did well to hold the score down as much as they did.

Man of the match went to Captain Callum Jones, who played with flair and did well as Captain, setting a good example for his team.
